

Many church fairs have been held in Honolulu in the last few years, and perhaps there will be many more in the years to come, but there never has been one where the ladies are striving harder to make it a success in every detail than the one to be held November 24 at the parish house on Emma street by the ladies of St. Andrew's cathedral. The grounds are to be used for the erection of booths of various sorts. These will be attractively decorated. The beautiful new parish house will be used for all social purposes. Each department is under the supervision of the most capable ladies. Mrs. Ernest Kopke, as chairman of the delicatessen booth, promises that things were never so delicious as they will have on sale this time. There will be cold ham, ducks, chicken, tongue, salads, home-made salad dressing, cranberry sauce, bread, rolls, cakes and several kinds of pie, all from the hands of expert cooks. One lady whose reputation for baking beans is well known will take charge of that feature entirely, and any quantity can be bought.

The fancy booth will have as its chairman Mrs. J. F. Melanphy. It is almost needless to say that this booth will be filled with fine needlework, garments and things both dainty and serviceable. It has been Mrs. Melanphy's idea to have no things that sell just because it's a fair and because people feel as if they must buy something. But each article will be well worth the money, and they will be just the things that you really want to give a friend at Christmas time. There will be many practical garments for children, also ladies' underwear, dressing gowns and aprons. It will repay you to keep your eye on this booth.

Besides these two main features of the sale, there will be many smaller ones—the ice cream booth, tea booth and many others. The chairman of each one is working with the success of that particular one in view.

Everyone is invited and will be made at home.

The band will be there, of course, and you are sure you have spent your afternoon to some advantage if you go to the parish house from 2:30 to 5 o'clock, November 24.

Col. Sam Parker is still visiting at Paso del Robles and the bracing effects of his many hunting trips are doing much to improve his health.

Mrs. Judge Matthewman is the house guest of Mrs. Robert Hind at her home at Hahi, Hawaii, during the absence of Mr. Hind at the meeting of the planters' association in Honolulu.

Mrs. William Green and Miss R. Green will be among the arriving passengers on the Lurline on Tuesday, after a six months' tour of the States.

Mrs. E. E. Winslow entertained at her home at Waikiki on Tuesday in compliment to Mrs. Uriel Seebree. The function took the form of a musical luncheon. Those present were Mrs. Seebree, Mrs. Rees, Mrs. Joseph Gilman, Mrs. L. Tenney Peck, Mrs. Cree, Mrs. Putnam, Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Watkins.

Capt. and Mrs. Corwin P. Rees entertained on Monday evening with a charmingly-appointed dinner, at which covers were laid for Mrs. Uriel Seebree, Captain and Mrs. Marix, Colonel and Mrs. Denny, Judge and Mrs. Woodruff, Judge and Mrs. Hatch and Major Dunning.

Chronicle.—The officers of his majesty's ship Bedford are having a delightful time at teas and then more teas, but it is not fair to insinuate that these officers, charming and popular as they are, have had a monopoly of the social attention during the last day or two, for Italian officers and other foreign visitors have had quite as happy a round of gaiety and have been prominent among those present. The officers of his majesty's ship Bedford will entertain this afternoon at a tea to be given on board ship, and among the girls from town who are going to the interesting affair given by these gallant hosts are Miss Anna Weller, Miss Jeannie Gallois, Miss Augusta Foute, Miss Anna Peters, Miss Bessie Zane and Miss Mabel Gregory.

Tuesday is the anniversary of the sixty-eighth birthday of His Majesty King Edward the Seventh of England. A reception will be held on that date at the British Consulate, between the hours of eleven o'clock in the morning and one o'clock in the afternoon. Acting British Consul Ralph G. E. Foster returned yesterday on the Alameda and receives on Tuesday.

The engagement is announced of Miss Nellie McLain to William H. Hismann of Hilo. The groom-to-be has been with Hackfeld & Co. for the past five years and is very popular in the Islands, while the bride-elect will be remembered for her many clever amateur performances. The wedding is scheduled to take place the first of the year.

In a recent letter from Chicago, Miss Mary H. Krout pays a pretty little compliment to Honolulu when she says: "I have many interests and many dear friends here, but my mind goes back longingly to the sea and the mountains and the sunshine of Hawaii nei." A new story of Miss Krout's is at present running in serial form in the Advance, and will probably be brought out later in book form by McClure.

Mrs. Walter Frear was the hostess Friday at a picnic given at her country home at the Peninsula in honor of the Misses Bard, the two charming daughters of Senator Bard of California, who have been visiting for some time in the Islands.

Mrs. Emma Dreier announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Adele, to Dr. Frank E. Frates. The date for the wedding has not been set, but will be announced later.

Mrs. Sidney Ballou has issued invitations for a luncheon to be given on Thursday in honor of Miss Violet Damon. Covers will be laid for the maid of honor and the bridesmaids who will officiate at the coming wedding of the guest of honor.

Chronicle.—Mr. and Mrs. M. H. de Young entertained in their box at the Portola festival Mr. and Mrs. George Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Tobin, Miss Enid Gregg, Miss Frances Stewart, Miss Maud O'Connor and Miss Katherine de Young.

Call.—Miss Mary Keeney was hostess at a luncheon Friday in honor of Mrs. Harold Dillingham, who is here from Honolulu, visiting her mother, Mrs. Hyde-Smith, and her sister, Mrs. Baldwin Wood. Among the guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Baldwin Wood, Miss Martha Calhoun, Mrs. George Cadwalader, Mrs. Orville Pratt, Miss Marion Zelle, Miss Florence Hopkins and Mrs. Jeanne Gallois.

The many ladies who have taken up tennis and who have been making plans for the holding of a ladies' tournament will be interested in the following account from the San Francisco Chronicle of the game between Miss May Sutton and Miss Hotchkiss. The Chronicle says:

Miss May Sutton, ex-champion of the world, easily defeated Miss Hazel Hotchkiss, the present national champion in the feature match of the Portola tennis tournament on the courts in Golden Gate Park yesterday. In so doing, Miss Sutton gave a wonderful exhibition of tennis. There was nothing particularly brilliant about her play, but her accuracy and steadiness proved entirely too much for her clever opponent, and at no time did Miss Hotchkiss have a chance to win even a set.

A large crowd was on hand for the sport and the tennis was the best seen at the park for some time. The majority of those present were there to see Miss Sutton play, and they were by no means disappointed at the game she put up. In the first set she ran off the first five games straight before Miss Hotchkiss managed to win a game. The sixth game was the only one Miss Hotchkiss won during the set.

The second set was far more interesting than the first. Miss Sutton took the first three games and then Miss Hotchkiss created some little surprise by winning three straight games. Each player took one of the next two games, making the score 4-4. Then Miss Sutton again took the lead at 5-4, and finally won the set, 6-4.

Miss Hotchkiss practically defeated herself in this match. Her errors were numerous, while those of Miss Sutton were few and far between. As a matter of fact, Miss Sutton made only three or four errors during the course of the match. She had her long forehand drive working in splendid shape and passed Miss Hotchkiss repeatedly with it at the net.

Miss Hotchkiss assumed the net position more or less throughout the match, but her volleying was not as good as she has shown in the past. She seemed nervous and tried to place the balls too close to the line, and the consequence was that a majority of her shots went just out of the court or into the net.

Miss Hotchkiss played the more brilliant tennis of the two, but she missed many more of these brilliant strokes than she made. As a result of the match yesterday there can be no further doubt regarding the question of supremacy between these two players. There were some few who looked for Miss Hotchkiss to defeat her opponent, but she was clearly outclassed, as she has been in all of the matches between the two in the past. Miss Hotchkiss has the stroke and the style to defeat Miss Sutton, but she will never do so until she steadies her game down materially.

Mrs. Jane Lishman More is showing a large line of exquisite Madeira lace which has been prepared for the holiday exhibit now on.
